

The FIRST 'Build your own reef' weekend

Ujung Kulon National Park, May 18-20, 2007

Always wanted to actively contribute to protection of the reefs and marine life?

Have you been secretly dreaming of having a reef named after you?

This can now become a reality in the first Build a reef weekend organised by Java Sea Charters and WWF Indonesia.

Practicalities

This very special, unique weekend offers space for 12 guests only. First come, first serve, so sign up today.

Due to limited space the weekend is for divers only, preferably advanced level, minimum 30+ dives, we remain the right to refuse divers in case of doubt of their experience.

The price for the total weekend is 2,5 million/$220 US per person, including comfortable stay on board (AC cabins), all dives, great food, beach bbq and drinks, transport, a unique once off t-shirt that will memorise the great work you have done and including ALL materials

(like racks and colonies) (value of 900.000/$80 US per person), needed for building your part of the reef.

The cost for the materials will all go to the local villagers who, because of this project, can have an additional source of income and this creates an incentive for them to not only protect but also farm the reefs of the future.

Java Sea Charters covers all other charges regarding preparation, management & park fees, and will take care of shortfall in operational costs for the total weekend.

Leave a legacy as a diver by building your reef during this exciting and fun first, unique weekend!
